

Girl Power Hour

HOME EVENTS BLOG SPONSOR ABOUT GETTICKETS CONTACT MEMBERS RSS

Search

GO

11.22 The Power Team checks out Swink Style Bar!

Last weekend, The Power Team gathered at the Sheraton, downtown on 6th & Pike, for a looong weekend of planning for all events and GPH fabulousness in 2010. We have a lot of exciting new things on the horizon that we CAN'T WAIT to share with you, but for now we wanted to tell you about our highlight of the weekend – our trip to Swink Style Bar!

Swink opened its doors at 611 Stewart the first week of November and boasts that it's Seattle's first "blow dry bar." No color or cuts here – just 30 minutes and approximately $30, and you're out the door and out on the town with a new do that'll shake up your normal routine. We couldn't wait to try it out before heading out in Seattle together as a team.

When we arrived at Swink, we were immediately enamored at the sparkly girly decor – a grand chandelier, orchids, pink lights, white leather chairs – swank style was everywhere at Swink. And of course, we were elated to be greeted with glasses of champagne while we waited. Now that's the way to every girl's heart!

We flipped through the style books that were waiting in the lobby - there are eight styles to choose, from "The Fifth Avenue" (straight and sleek) to "The Cosmo" (a Euro-chic ponytail). We each selected our looks for the night, then took our seats to be transformed by Swink's three lovely and talented hair Goddesses – Danelle, Cassidy and Abigail.

We were in and out in a flash – and looking hot, if we do say so ourselves! Some of The Power Team even had time to have their make-up done at the beauty bar (fake eyelashes also available)! We all had the best time – the stylists were a talented, fun bunch of girls and the owner was so sweet and accommodating. They were booked solid, but took the time to make The Power Team feel welcome and special. Swink comes highly recommended with the Girl Power Hour stamp of approval. Check it out before you're next night out on the town!

